PROF MARILE The Capture of Fort Morgan The Fort Fort Forced to Capitulate in Twenty-four The Rebel Ram Nashville In the foreground is a newly made mound, by the side of which may be seen the knewling form of a weeping woman, the headstone of the grave bearing this inscription. "In Memory of our Union Heroes, who fell in a Union soldier, whose right leg was lost in battle, is supporting himself upon crutches, cap in hand, clasping the right hand of a rebelofficer who has one tool upon the grave, a pistol if his bid, the whip of a slaw-driver in his left hand, and the demon of tyranny and acound reliem in his face.

In the background on the left, may be seen a desoluted and burning city, the ground in whose vicinty is strew with the dead bo ties of our troops; on the right a slave chained to his wife, who holds a bake in her manacled hands, while the dim distance discloses a gallows, with a corpse suspended from its long and naked arm. Over the Southern half of the picture waves a rebel battle flag, inscribed, "Guertin Warf, re," "Fort Pillow," "No Quarter," "Burning Chambersbung" "Starving Yankre Prisoners," with the same of a few other barbarnities; while over the Northern side the "stars and stripes" revened, bears the names of the victories which have ren' cred our arise immortal and our history glegious.

Here may be seen Harper's idea of "Compromise with the South." This is the barquet to which the rebois of the Chiesco Convention invite the Northern people. A Great Compet.

Professor Caswell contributes the following to the Philadelphis Frear of Weenesday evening: Leat evening the tail of one of the most magnificent comeis on record was seen in this act, when not obscured by the missis and clouds in the west. At it o'clock the tail extend a nearly to the constrainton. Draco, or more than early togrees from the northern. Supposing the nacleon to be at least thirty degrees below the horizon at that time, the extent of the tail would have been ninely degrees.

Of the great historic comeis, that of the year 371 before Christiana, The comet of 1618 is recorded as having a tail a hundred and four degrees in length. That of 1620 and a tail from seventy to hinely degrees; tant of 1700 a tail of inety-swin degrees; and that of 1861, a tail of sixty-five degrees. These figures are taken from Horsche's—Outline of Astronomy.

To persons not accustomed to measuring by degrees, it mas be useful to state that the distaince from the horsent to the santh is ninely degrees. This will obta sound the present conet grove as remarkable for brillancy as for size, it will be toe most remarkable one which has speared to this generation. It will be looked for with grout interest after sunset this evening. If may be borne in mind, however, that the count of 1863 was much more brilland on the first evening, when nea cet the sun than on any subsequent evening. If on the other hand, the present comet should be approaching the earth, as there is reason to believe, it will increase in apparent size and prillinger. Democra's," and must seek, no matter who what they are. Why did not the convention put in a clause demanding the same right for Jeff. Davis and Judah P. Benjamla, and eil the rest? When Hunt and Smith made their confession at Sa. Louis, and exposed the secrets of the O. A. K., the Copperbead papers tried to sacer at the matter, and declared that the whole thing was gotten up by the military anthorities as a scarcescrow. They felt uncasy about it, however, and it was easy to see that their indifference was assumed and very thin. In the Dödd Correspondence, the real "fe.lings" of the "Sons," on this point is made menifest. One chap anxiously inquired of the Grand Commander what effect the expose is likely to have. Another, one John E. Risley, the is w partner of Voornees, writing from New York to Dodd declares that Hunt & Co., have "played the devil," and in an evidently distressed state of mind, inqires whether "our friends" are implicated, or "our friends" are affected. He has aince discovered, no doubt, that the "devil" has been played generally: that "our friends" are implicated, and that "our peoples" are affected. 99,915 90,600 100 104,900 850 96,177 the same occasion for complaint as there has been; for as to allowing men to fight the nabeen; for as to allowing men to fight the na-tion and vote foost the same time, we should be but natural born fools to a low it. [Correspondence of the Catenge Tribane,] Transcense Bertons Atlanta, Aag. 24, 1864.

I sin enabled to put another link in the chain of circumstancial evidence, tending to prove there is a connection between the American Order of Kauguis and the rebels of the Southern Confederacy. The crequestances are these: A member of Company 7, 25d Indiana, who is a citture of Cornelian county, Illinois, joined the Knights of the County, Illinois, joined the Knights of the Gounty. Two years atterwards he returned bone, a veteran solder. In the meantion, the K G. C. 's having the covered its transactive to the county, the American Order of Knights was built upon its rulin and als friends and mostly joined the O. A. K 's, and declared there was no connection between them and the traitors he had been fighting. The lo, als papers study insisting there was created a suspicion in his mind, but has friends succeeded in carrying their point, and induce him to enfer the A. O. K 's, where he learned the signs of that Order, and with the advantages which a knowledge of their clars gave bim. he determined to test the matter, and satisfy himself whether there was any connection between a lo-2e North sod one South. Time passed away without having the desired opportunity mill the 20th of this month, when as he was leading over the works he observed a Johnny watching, him yer, closely, and immediately signaled him, giving the first sign of the O.
